DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) do not apply to the examination of this application as the application being examined was not (1) filed on or after November 29, 2000, or (2) voluntarily published under 35 U.S.C. 122(b). Therefore, this application is examined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

2. Claims 1-27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by LaJoie, (U.S. Pat # 5,850,218).

Considering clams 1 & 15, the claimed method of presenting an audiovisual signal to user's display monitor comprising receiving a command from the user, responding to the command by assigning an assignable computing device, (ACD) is broad enough to read on the operation of LaJoie, (Abstract; Fig. 1; col. 10, lines 21-35; col. 14, lines 10-25), which discloses that a user accesses the Internet, through a computing device. Any particular server computing device, which the user is communicating with reads on being assigned to the user, (col. 17, lines 58-65.

Thus LaJoie inherently establishes a communications link between the monitor and a server, (ACD). The claimed menu is met by the EPG, Fig. 6-Fig. 10. The claimed steps of selecting one of a video program and routing the selected video program to the user's display is met by LaJoie, (col. 7, lines 14-65Fig. 13; Fig. 25).

Considering claims 2-3 & 17-18, the claimed GUI buttons are met by the EPG display, (Fig. 25).

Considering claims 4 & 19, LaJoie teaches demodulating RF signals, (col. 14, lines 11-15).

Considering claims 5 & 20, see col. 14, lines 45-55, RF modulator 61.

Considering claims 6-8 & 21-23, see Fig. 25 & Fig. 28; col. 22, lines 35-45; col. 27, lines 35-60.

Considering claims 9 & 24, see col. 17, lines 10-25.

Considering claims 10-12 & 25-26, see col. 10, lines 44-54.

Considering claims 13 & 27, the claimed step reads on the user being connected to whichever service provider that provides a selected video program, (Fig. 5; col. 16, lines 10-30). LaJoie discloses that the user is enabled to access services from the WWW, specific VOD providers, home shopping networks, still image database services, etc. When the user goes from one service provider to another, inherently the system must at some point break the connection in order to establish connection with other service providers.

Considering claim 14, the claimed feature reads on the lists of channels displayed to the user, as disclosed in LaJoie, (Fig. 16; Fig. 17).

Considering claim 16, the claimed apparatus for presenting an audiovisual signal to a user's display monitor, corresponds with subject matter mentioned above in the rejection of claim 1, and is likewise analyzed. The claim RCS reads on the set top terminal, disclosed in LaJoie, (Fig. 3; col. 14, lines 58-65 & col. 15, lines 1-10).
